on Sunday morning, St. Mary's Church was facilities are afforded to large and rapidfilled with a large and attentive congregation. About 6 o'clock, the Archbishop of Baltimore entered, with various attendants, and began the consecration of the new altar, which lasted for nearly two hours. The rite consisted of the recitation of many of the psalms, with various prayers, and the blessing of sait, ashes, water and wine, which were mingled together for the sprinkling of the altar. The Archbishop made crosses with Chrism and holy oil in the centre and on the corners of the altar, in the form of a cross, Hall. several times, and finally poured both upon it, anointing the entire table. He also placed in a small cavity, or sepulchre, relies of several saints, and blessing sand and lime, made cement, and closed them in with a suitable stone tablet. The crosses were made with grains of incense in the places which had been anointed, and cruciform wax tapers FRANK MORSELL, to Mrs. JANE Mcbeing placed upon them, and lighted at each the President. If there was a necessity of the four ends, were consumed. The altar was, also, frequently fumed with incense. All these ceremonies the Archbishop explained, were in allusion to various facts recorded in the Old Testament, and to St. John's Vision of the Heavenly Jerusalem in

adorped with lights and flowers, the Most Rev. Dr. Kenrick celebrated Mass thereon. and administered the holy communion to a large number of persons. Mass was then celebrated by the Rev. Dr. Ryder. At 10 o'clock, the candidates for Confirmation, 23 boys; 32 girls; 7 gentlemen; 24 ladies; 2 colored boys; 2 colored men; and 4 colored women, 98 in all, assembled at the school house on Fairfax street, and preceded by an acolyte in surplice bearing the cross, attended by two others with large lighted candles, proceeded along Duke and Royal Streets to the church. at the front door of which they were met by the pastor, attended by two acolytes. As on Duke Street it was joined by Archbishop Kenrick in his robes of office, wearing a cap and mitre of cloth of gold, and bearing his crosier, or pastoral staff. He was attended by two clergymen and five acolytes appropriately attired. The candidates being seated, and the clergy having entered the chancel, the Archbishop proceeded to administer the sacrament of Confirmation, the recipients kneeling before him by twos, from the old man of seventy, whose tottering sters were supported to the altar, to the little innocent of ten, arrayed in virgin white.

The altar being cleansed, covered, and nets, wearing white veils.

Rev. Peter Kroes, Rector of St. Mary's then celebrated a Solemo Mass, accompanied by the music of Mozart's Grand Mass, No. 12, from the choir led by Mr. Foertsch on the organ, assisted by an efficient orchestra. After the reading of the Gaspel, the Archbishop preached an exceedingly able discourse upon the last three verses of the Gospel of St. Matthew.

The exercises concluded at 12 o'clock, and the immense crowd, (for the galleries, aisles, vestibule, steps, and even the pavements had been thronged,) dispersed.

At 4 o'clock, the church was again erowded, in every part to its utmost capacity .-Vespers were chaunted by the choir, and at the Anthem "Magnificat" the Archbishop left the throne or canopied seat, he occupied, and advancing to the front of the altar, exhorted those who had been confirmed, and who occupied the entire upper range of pews, with great force and elequence. A hundred candles held by them were then lighted, and the darkness of the church occasioned by the gloom of the declining day, thus illuminated, the beautiful appearance of the altar with its elegant vases of rare flowers and blazing lights, and the array of beautiful and innocent children about to enter upon a solemn covenant with God, all combined to produce one of the most impressive spectacles ever witnessed in Alexandria. The prayer upon renewal of the baptismal vows was then read by Master Henry J. Nevett, and Miss Mary Hurdle, and the children and adults, many of whom were recent converts to Catholicity, advancing by sections to the altar rails received certificates of confirmation, and repeated the following words: "I renounce the devil, with all his works and pomps, and promise to live and die in the Holy Catholic Church." The services then
